

M. L. Ruggles said more prayers and came closer to death last Thursday evening than he has done for a long time. Emil Dusbabek and some others were moving a house from town to Binford and got stuck in a hole west of the track. Ruggles came along and wanted to show them how to get out. He grabbed hold of the lines of one team on one side the building while Ed. Zimpick's team started up suddenly ahead of the other team and the under beam of the building struck Ruggles on his right side squeezing him badly. He was brought into town and was taken care of by Dr. Kerr and is now recovering. He will be sore for some time.
