

The long distance telephone line has reached the city limits and in a few days we shall be able to talk with the outside world right from our own desks, at least those who have 'phones in their places of business will. We understand that Manager Goff, of the local exchange, will have charge of the long distance business, which is by all means the best place for it.