

When turning a curve on a grade about a mile east of Walum, E. W. Everson's automobile skidded and overturned down an embankment. Mr. and Mrs. Everson were the only occupants of the car and both were pinioned under it. Mr. Everson was unable to move but Mrs. Everson was finally able to crawl out and call for help. With the assistance of neighbors the machine was again righted and Mr. Everson freed. He was not injured but Mrs. Everson sustained painful internal injuries and is confined to her bed. The accident happened on Thursday evening when they were on their way to attend a social at Cross
