

J. W. Harris suffered a severe attack of heart failure on Monday of last week. He was rendered unconscious for three hours and for a while his life was despaired of. Mr. Harris is now greatly improved, however, and will soon be about again. There seems to have been no particular cause for the sudden attack being the re-occurrence of a trouble of long standing.