

Claus Jackson had the misfortune to break two bones in his wrist while cranking his auto last Tuesday. He was out near the river at the time and found it a rather strenuous task to run the machine home. Some of the Wilson men in town are saying that the Progressive cause is in bad shape now with both Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Jackson laid up, but Claus insists that they are both very much alive yet.