

David Palm, who has been in the dray business here for the past two years, has disposed of it to Ole Kalvik, but will continue to reside in town for the present.