

Luverne Ledger: Last Friday morning while Axel Peterson was working around the coal shed opposite the depot he noticed a package lying in the weeds. Picking it up and opening the package he found it to contain two revolvers, one safety razor and a wire cable with a hook on it. This outfit evidently belonged to some bad man and he perhaps thought that he was being suspected of carrying this outfit, threw it in the weeds. At first it was thought to belong to the loot taken from the hardware store at Hannaford a few weeks ago, but on Saturday morning the Aarestad brothers from Hannaford happened to be in town and examined the outfit and they claimed that it did not come from their store. It is a mystery how this happened to be there but most likely some rough neck threw it there.
