

WEDDING BELLS.

Simmons-Langer.

Last Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Maren Langer occurred one of those happy events which it is a pleasure to chronicle, being the marriage of Miss Jessie A. Langer, one of Sanborn's most talented and agreeable young ladies, to D. Dwight Simmons, son of the late Rev. Dr. Simmons, of Fargo, by the Rev. Joseph N. Haskell of this place.

The wedding possessed the novelty of occurring out-doors, the ceremony taking place under an evergreen and flower-trimmed arch, from which was suspended a bell constructed of greens and flowers, the weather being perfect for the occurrence.

Shortly after 8 o'clock, as the wedding march, played by Mrs. Emil Langer, pealed forth, the groom, Mr. Dwight Simmons, accompanied by his brother Paul, who acted as best man, advanced to the arch of yellow daisies erected on the spacious lawn. From the center of this arch was suspended a large wild daisy bell. Immediately following the groom came the bride, leaning upon the arm of her brother, Mr. C. O. Langer, who were preceded by little Leonard Langer, who scattered handfuls of feverfew as they advanced to the altar. Following them came Miss May Stanford, who acted as bridesmaid.

Standing just behind the arch, with the western sky aglow with the setting sun, Rev. Mr. Haskell conducted the beautiful and impressive ring ceremony which made them husband and wife.

The members of the families immediately interested, together with a number of friends, were present, and after the ceremony and felicitations, the latter of which were most hearty and cordial, the guests sat down to a bounteous wedding feast.

The bride's table was trimmed with white carnations and feverfew; of the other two one was trimmed with pink carnations, and one with red.

The bride appeared radiant in a gown of white French lawn over taffeta. The gown was trimmed with valenciennes lace insertion, and the deep yoke was of point lace. She carried a large bunch of white bride's roses. The bridesmaid's dress was of light blue silk mull and she carried pink roses. The groom and best man were dressed in conventional black.

Of the groom's family the following were present: Mrs. Simmons, Miss Jennie and Messrs. Paul, Harry and Howard. Other guests present from out of town were: Miss Hamlin of Dazey, Miss Coddling and Miss Dennett of Valley City and Miss Longfellow of Getchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Simmons leave this week for a visit to Lake Pelican, Minn., and will be at home after August 9 at 361 Eighth Ave., So., Fargo.
