

Fred Zollner Dead

A message was received Tuesday by Adam Zollner, telling of the death of his brother Fred, who was a victim of tuberculosis. Deceased had been a sufferer from this malady less than two years, the first indications having been observed shortly after an automobile accident in which he lost a considerable quantity of blood from a cut on the arm. He went immediately to a sanitarium near St. Paul, and later to New Mexico, where his death occurred. Mr. Zollner was an old time resident of this state, being the owner of a large tract of land southwest of here.

His brother Adam departed Wednesday for McIntyre Iowa, where the remains will be shipped for burial.
