

After forty years the mystery surrounding the disappearance of Wm. Gale, a well-to-do bachelor who lived on a homestead west of Cooperstown has lately been cleared up when workmen unearthed the skeleton of a man in the basement of a house on the state road three miles east of where Gale lived. It was believed at the time that he was murdered for his money.