

Nick Johnson, former postmaster at Aneta, fell from the top of a gasoline car on the railroad track Tuesday, his head striking the rail on a side track, inflicting injuries from which he died Wednesday. He was a brother of Mrs Johnson, the county superintendent of schools.