

House Burned

Arnold Anderson's house was destroyed by fire at midnight Wednesday night. The family had been at the home of E. A. Daniel and wife, and on returning home, lit their gasoline lamp. In doing so a mantle broke, the flame therefrom setting fire to a curtain. In the confusion that ensued the fire spread until it was beyond control. Henry Gunderson and Willie Starr were first to come to their assistance but all that could be saved was a gas stove, baby buggy, a few clothes and some small articles. The house was insured.
