

Kenneth Byington had the misfortune to fall from a load of hay Thursday and break the large bone in his right wrist. He was unloading hay at Bert Starr's, but not realizing the bone was broken he finished the job before discovering the extent of the injury.