

Kenneth Byington returned home Monday from his sojourn in New York state. He travelled over two thousand miles by car on sight seeing trips and has many stories of the wonderful sights he beheld. New York city was an attractive place for a short time, but he thinks the pace is too swift for him there.