

A brother of Henry Clemens came through Sutton after the rain last week, being on his way by truck from Canada to Iowa. On account of the heavy roads south, John Youngbeck helped him over $1\frac{1}{2}$ miles of the worst spots, and in conversation with Mr. Clemens learned that the latter had been engaged in farming near Weyburn, clearing up a neat sum of about \$25,000 during the years he was located there. He was passing this way to visit his brother, who lives south of Sutton.
