

J. A. DeJean and I. H. Alm have taken a job of painting the mail boxes on two of the Binford rural routes. The post office department has requested that all mail boxes be painted white, and on hundreds of routes in the United States this request has been complied with. The patrons on the Sutton route will be interviewed on this subject and the postmaster and rural carrier are hopeful they will decide to have their boxes painted.