

Sunday marked the departure of two families from Sutton, A. J. Melgard's having gone to Carrington, which is to be their future home, and W. J. Frederick's leaving by car for Seattle. With the passing of the former family, pioneers in Sutton, there has been an almost complete turnover in the town's population since the writer first landed here in 1913. There are today only five remaining who were here at time. They are Ole Selden, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Allen and Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Davidson.
