Says New "Death Ray" Paralyzes for Hours

Washington.—A new kind of "death ray," exceeding in its destructive capacity any previous device, rumored or realized, was reported to the Commerce department as the asserted accomplishment of a German inventor.

William T. Daugherty, trade commissioner at Berlin, forwarded a summary of a publication describing the invention, which is called "hellotaeub," with the claim that its mysterious waves are capable of paralyzing life for six hours over a distance of forty miles and to an altitude of more than 45,000 feet.

Explanation of methods of operation and of the source of the energy used was lacking.

War department experts pointed out that the highest elevation reached by an airplane as yet is about 20,000 feet, so that the device—if it works—would easily clear the air in any

American Universities Are Heavily Endowed

Washington.—Million-dollar endowments are possessed by 121 American universities, according to figures recently compiled by the Department of the Interior through the Bureau of Education.

Most of these institutions are under private control. State universities as a rule are not heavily endowed, and only 18 of them are in the millionaire class so far as their productive endowments are concerned. Harvard university is the richest educational institution in the United States; its endowment is $53,031,769. Columbia is next, with $41,300,900, and Yale, Leland Stanford, Chicago, Cornell, Johns Hopkins, Carnegie, Princeton, Rochester and Pennsylvania follow in the order named.

Harvard is first, too, in the value of buildings, grounds and equipment, for its plant is worth $22,800,000. Yale is a close second, with $21,089,690, and Columbia, Pennsylvania, Chicago, Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Leland Stanford follow in the list of private institutions.

University of Texas is the wealthiest state university in its endowment for it has $11,013,928. California follows with $8,407,775; then Washington, Minnesota and Oklahoma, all of which have comfortable permanent funds. In value of property and equipment the University of California holds first place among state universities, with $17,782,539. Minnesota is next with $14,759,642, and Michigan, Illinois and Wisconsin follow in close succession.
