

This week while Henry Gunderson was drilling a well on J. W. Leininger's place he found a piece of shell in a good state of preservation. It was brought up from a depth of 129 feet. This is probably evidence that a body of water covered the surface of the earth at that level ages ago.