

While drilling a well Monday on the Buchheit farm near Binford, Henry Gunderson had his hand caught in the machinery, splitting the flesh between the second and third bones. Several stitches were necessary to close the wound.