

Henry Gunderson had a rather unusual experience while drilling a well near Tolna recently. When a flow of water was struck at a certain depth it caused two other wells, one quite a distance away, to go dry.