

The McHenry Tribune has again suspended publication temporarily. Small town papers are finding it harder every year to exist, and in a few years most of them in North Dakota, at least, will be numbered with the dead.