

Several days ago, when John E. Sutton who is one of the school janitors had occasion to go into the boiler room at the school house he was greatly surprised to find that a large pile of paper collected at the close of school had caught fire and burned. There was, as Mr. Sutton expressed it, enough to fill a 70 bushel box. No clue as to the cause of the fire is known. Fortunately the paper was on the cement floor with nothing inflammable near it.
