

Ladeaux Sutton met with a mishap a few days ago that fortunately resulted in no serious injury, although it might have been otherwise. He was riding his kiddie car and racing with another boy on a bicycle when he fell in front of it, a wheel of the bike passing over the back of his head. He was rendered unconscious a short time, but was all right in a little while.