

The storm last week developed into a tornado as the clouds passed to the north, and when it reached Ernest Johnson's, it blew his barn to pieces. He has a new barn under construction to take the place of the one destroyed.