

I. A. Kampen was a very sick man the past two weeks from an affection of the throat, which was so severe that for several days he was unable to eat or sleep. An operation was performed by Dr. Lewis the latter part of last week, and since then he has been improving,