

Ole Selden had the misfortune to break his ankle Tuesday morning. He had started across the railroad track and slipped among some ties scattered along the grade, his foot catching between them with the above-mentioned result. Dr Lewis was called immediately and set the broken member.