

John Starr had the misfortune to lose a valuable cow under peculiar conditions Wednesday. The animal was apparently in good health until without warning it began to act queerly, fell over and was dead in two or three minutes. The cow had been fresh about a week.