

Lightning struck John E. Sutton's house shortly after noon Tuesday, the bolt entering by way of the chimney. Considerable damage was done to the plastering upstairs, and some of the timbers in the front room were shattered where the shaft made its exit. None of the occupants were injured except Mrs Wm. Sutton, who was standing quite near the chimney downstairs. She was prostrated for a few minutes but Dr. Lewis was called immediately, and she was soon revived.