

S. E. Wickham and family had a rather peculiar experience with their kitchen range Sunday, during the storm. The stove seemed to be charged with electricity as members of the family had sensations as if being shocked, when near it.