

The stork has been putting in an appearance here the past week, and after looking around for a good place to light, picked out Herman Nelson's home, he having decided that a nice baby boy was needed there, and after much insisting on Hermans' part, one was left Saturday evening. It is hard to tell which feels the biggest, Herman or Grandpa Lars Nelson. It is said that Lars has not been seen in town since, and that he spends his time at his son's home. Dr. Livingstone was the attending physician.
