

T. J. Atwood returned Saturday from Fargo, having spent a week there on business. Mr. Atwood has accepted a position with a leading fire insurance company, his territory to be in the southern part of the state with headquarters at Jamestown. He does not expect to move to that place for some time as he will be able to get in here as often as in Jamestown for awhile, but will locate there as soon as his territory is satisfactorily arranged. Mr. Atwood's many friends will be glad to extend to him the best of wishes in his new field of labors. He left Sunday evening for the northern part of the state to work with one of the learned insurance men of the state, after which he will start in the field given him as his part of the state.
