

Mr. and Mrs. Lars Nelson returned Monday morning from a weeks visit in the twin cities. This was what Lars calls his annual vacation; he and his wife go about this time each year for a trip to the cities to take in some of the sights that are afforded those living in a city, but they always come home more satisfied that the country life is really the best life. Lars reports that they had a fine time but that he could spend the same amount of time working on the farm and would not feel near as tired out.
