

Otto Olson has started a restaurant at Glenfield, and is now serving quite a number of people at each meal, mostly men employed in the building line there. The new elevator is expected to be started at once by the farmers of that territory; also three others by other parties. There has been about forty lots sold up to date and inquiries are being received daily in regards to business location.