

Sold His Farm

M. D. Patterson has sold his one-half section farm, which is located just south of Courtenay. The farm is a good one and this year's crop was included in the sale, which promises to be big.

Mr. Patterson feels that he should be entitled to a rest and decided to dispose of the farm so he could be free to do as he saw fit, and he may spend some the winter months in a different climate where he hopes to find relief for rheumatism, from which he has been a sufferer of for some years.

An auction sale will be held at the farm on August 1, at which time he will dispose of everything with the exception of the household goods. Mr. Patterson has a large outlay of horses, cows, machinery, and many other useful articles for the farm, and a fine chance will be given at this sale, for those attending to pick up some real bargains.

Mr. Patterson intends to move his family to town for this winter.
