

The residence of John Spisla was struck by a bolt of lightning during the storm Sunday evening but fortunately little damage was done to the building and the occupants escaped injury. The family were seated at the supper table when the bolt struck the chimney, running down the stove pipe and going through the floor, doing but little damage outside of knocking a few bricks off the chimney, filling the room with smoke and thoroughly frightening the inhabitants of the building.