Local Happenings of the Week

John Albin is working for Pat Garrity again.

Mr. C. L. Diesem has his brother-in-law visiting him for a few days.

Rev. V. L. C. Merchant visited at Jamestown last Wednesday and Thursday.

A. L. Orange is enjoying his new Ford car to the limit these days when he has nothing else to do.

Rounseville and Doty received a car of lumber this week and have unloaded it with the help of Mr. Reidasch.

Geo. Brownson is another that has not an Acme binder. They are taking well with the farmers wherever sold.

R. C. Hazard, with the Great Northern Implement Co. of Minneapolis called on his trade here last Tuesday.

Herman Stoppelworth is a round again after his accident with Caroline engine plows and seems almost over the accident.

G. W. Orange returned to Spiritwood on Monday morning last. He is staying at the home of his son-in-law, Alfred Jones and wife.

Farmers are heels over head in the harvest now, which is sure a bountiful one for them considering the crop the last couple of years.

The Schmitt Bros. took their new Advance Separator out to their farm on one day last week. They intend and expect to have a large run this year and will undoubtedly clean up a nice sum of money with their large Advance rig.

Mrs. L. B. Stoaks arrived home on Tuesday last from Iowa where she went to see her brother Ed. who has been sick for the past month. Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Dunn came with her back and will visit here a few days and then will go on to Steele to visit there also. They report the harvesting almost completed the Red River Valley and further east.

L. B. Stoaks, help the Rounseville and Doty store on Monday last.

Mrs. H. L. Sisson and Mrs. G. E. Hamby were Jamestown callers a week ago Tuesday.

Regular service were held in the church here last Sunday and a good attendance was reported.

Martin Graven was a Jamestown visitor on Sunday last. He made the trip in his new Reo auto.

W. H. Rounseville arrived here on Tuesday morning and expects to stay for a little while, while the threshing last.

The continued rains make it almost impossible to get any of the crop harvested. Hope it will stop for a while.

Nels Albin seems a whole lot younger these last few days and the reason for it is that he has his mustache shaved off.

When you here a commercial traveler knocking a competitors goods, beware, for a sensible man will not do this any more.

Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Clay arrived here one day last week and went out to their farm south of town and visited there one day, hence they went to Fargo, and by the way of Fergus Falls went home again.

Max Rick who was reported in last weeks issue to have had his hand hurt in a binder has since had one of his fingers amputated he is however getting along better and expects to use his hand after some time.

Otto Johnson, who has been holding down the depot agency at Bloom for the past 6 months has been bumped as was reported in the last issue and has rented the store building that was vacant at Eckleson and intends putting in a large stock of groceries and mens furnishings. We are glad to see Otto do this for we think that he will make good as he is well liked by all that know him and we predict for him success in every sense of the word.

Mr. Nick Hoffert was a Spiritwood visitor one day the past week.

Fried and son received a car of twine and machinery one day this week.

Chas. Gospidor of Freid P. O. was a caller here on Saturday of last week.

Glen Pool and Herman Stoppelworth were Jamestown visitors on the 7th.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. J. Kline visited at the home of Mr. Reidasch on the Sabbath.

Jim Dresser and Martin Graven were Jamestown callers on one evening of last week.

Mr. and Mrs. V. Clamp of Jamestown visited at the home of Geo. Hamby over last Sunday.

Mr. McCauley with the Hudson Thurber Co. of Minneapolis was a caller on his trade last week.

A. M. Hopkins is another man that has purchased one of the Iowa dairy cream separators and has it on his farm now.

Ray Sherman was a Jamestown visitor over the Sabbath. We note he makes regular trips out west and wonder, what for.

C. I. Bruce has taken out a new Acme binder to harvest his crop with. He reports it very heavy and expects a good yield.

Albert Colley has purchased a second hand Hart-Parr engine of some one north of Eckleson and expects to run the same this coming threshing.

E. J. Hayes of Urbana and A. P. Paulson, both of this place are the two farmers around here that intend to use their gas traction engine to do the harvesting with this season.

Miss Mable and Annie Brownson of Jamestown have resigned their position and have returned to Spiritwood for a while, and expect to make a trip before beginning work again.

P. E. Brown threshed some rye last week and it yielded 1 m 22 1/2 bushels per acre. He claims that he had only 4 loads of bundles and if this is true he had a very good yield considering the growth on the ground. This is not all he has a good crop of millet where the rye was taken off and has it pastured and will have a lot of feed there yet this fall.

Rounseville and Doty receive part of another car of twine this week and the balance will be loaded with machinery. This will doubtly arrive the middle of this week and before this goes into print. They have taken care of all the orders they had which is more than some did around the country this year on account of the shortage.

C. E. Creighton has purchased a second hand separator for this season and has it home and ready to go into the field and thresh. He reports the grain so heavy in some places that it is almost an impossibility to cut it. He says in cutting with a 12 foot machine that the binder made 40 bundles in 60 seconds.

Most of the dark skinned Gypsy tribe are back again from their long trips across the prairie and are settled down in the camps to help them reap the large crop this year. They have also brought along another large bunch with them and intend to buy some farms around here and in the neighborhood of Spiritwood and their former farms. They have already purchased a couple of quarters, as mentioned in last weeks issue.

Frank Squire and hired man were Jamestown visitors last Wednesday.

Miss Alma Toepke of Judson is visiting her sister Mrs. Theo. Price for a while.

Otto Stuff had the interior of the new hotel finished and new business was started last Monday morning. They moved into the hotel on Saturday preceding. Here's hoping that it will prove a success to all concerned.

We had a regular old time rain storm here on Monday morning to commence the week with, thus delaying the harvesting for another half day. Some farmers report that the little pot holes in the fields are full of water, another reason for buying and using the Cushman binder engine sold by Rounseville and Doty of this place.
