Quite a little barley and rye will be cut before this paper comes into print. The barley together with the rye will be an immense crop this year, it being too far advanced to a low rust to hurt it.

Lightning struck the house of Nels Albine tearing off some siding, but otherwise doing no damage, it also hit the granary belonging to C. I. Bruce, who is living in the same, doing no damage at all.

There has been reports reach us of late in regard to flax wilt. T. C. Weatherbee, James Brennan and E. J. Hayes are the ones to report this in their flax crop. It is too bad with the excellent prospects of a good flax crop that this disease has to spoil some of the grain. The wheat crop prospects cannot and have not been better for long years it is stated, the grain stands up straight and has a good green color to it, some reports the joint worm working on it, but this from only one party. There is not any signs of the dreadful black rust and we hope that there will be none to mar the biggest crop North Dakota has ever seen.

ENGLISH-GROWN TOBACCO.

Winchcombe St. Peter in Gloucestershire began the cultivation of tobacco in England toward the end of the sixteenth century, and the inhabitants are said to have derived considerable profit from it until the trade was placed under restrictions. An entry in Pepps' Diary on September 19, 1667, concerning the coming of a cousin of his to town proceeds: "She tells me how the life guard, which we thought a little while since was sent down into the country about some insurrection, was sent to Winchcombe to spoil the tobacco there, which it seems the people there do plant contrary to law, and have always done, and still been under force and danger of having it spoiled, as it hath been oftentimes, and yet they continue to plant it. The place, she says, is a miserable poor place."

UNIVERSAL TALENT.

"Don't you think umpires ought to receive higher salaries?" "Perhaps. But they can't expect them in the face of so much competition. There are thousands of people in the bleachers every day... 11567 to step right over and take some more."
