

Aged Man Dies from Stroke

William Stutts, of Everett, Wash., was stricken with apoplexy while walking from the Hotel to the Great Northern depot on Thursday morning, and passed to the far beyond in a few minutes. The doctor was called at once, but life was extinct before his arrival.

Mr. Stutts had been visiting the Trober family for the past month, and was on his way back to his home. He was in seemingly good health when leaving the Hotel, but old age perhaps was one of the causes of his death.

He served with General Sibley in the Indian wars in the early 60's, and joined the 3rd Minnesota regiment in the Civil War, marching with Sherman to the sea. Mr. Stutts was a Virginian by birth, but his sympathy for negroes made him enlist with the North.

His remains were taken to Everett, Wash., for its final resting place. The men of the Grand Army will soon be only a memory of the past as they are all soon numbered with the dead.
