

Jas. Beattie was suddenly taken ill yesterday afternoon about three o'clock while out in the field cutting grain. He was seized with an attack so severe that he had to be carried into the house; the ailment evidently coming from a rupture which has been bothering him for some time. He was taken to town just in time to go to Fargo on the evening train. Mr. Jones accompanied him, and returned this morning, reporting that Mr. Beattie was, resting somewhat easier, and that an operation probably would be performed sometime today.
