

Ole L. Fogderud, of Fairmead, Cal., who has been spending a number of weeks in this community looking after the marketing of the crop on his farm west of town, returned last week to his home in California. Mr. Fogderud found that the returns from his farm here were very meagre this year, and hardly sufficient to cover the expenses of his long trip from California.