

A little child of Mr. and Mrs. Swen Haaland was playing on the N. P. railroad track near their farm home north of town when the passenger train was due from the north. The engineer luckily saw the child in time to slacken up speed and tho the engine bumped into the little fellow no injuries were sustained. It was truly a remarkably narrow escape.