

son, Andrew Fortney, Lars Lerum, Oscar Nelson, and others. Emilear Hope is traveling in the interests of the Norske Lutherske Kina Forbund and many of our older Scandinavian people are well familiar with him and his work.

Estrayed—A 230-pound hog, left our place Thursday, Dec. 1st. Anyone knowing its whereabouts please notify Nordeng & Alm.

Postmaster W. D. Sinclair read a communication to the pupils of the local school, from the Postmaster General, last Monday. The communication relates to the mailing of Christmas parcels, and we print the article on the front page of this issue, as it is of interest to all.

All who are interested in growing potatoes are asked to attend a meeting to be held at the Farmers Elevator next Saturday, Dec. 10th, at 2:30 o'clock. Potato growing is at present creating more than the usual amount of interest and this meeting will give an opportunity for a thorough discussion.

Hallie Wall was down from Cooperstown one day last week and went out on a business trip to Revere. Mr. Wall is a general auctioneer, having had much experience in this work, and is looking forward to considerable work in his line with the opening of the spring season. We are sure Mr. Wall will prove a most popular auctioneer.

Kermit Isackson returned from Graco City last Wednesday where he has been working all fall. He started school on Monday, and intends to finish the school year here.

Paul Spaulding left here Saturday for Bremen, N. D. He has been attending the Hannaford High School and was known and beloved by his teachers as a VERY studious and energetic pupil. His classmates will miss him for the jazz and pop he contributed to the school life. He will be long remembered by all. (especially)—E. S.

Rumors of a Freshman party are abroad. We hope the good work keeps up.

The report cards for the second six weeks term were given out last Wednesday.

An exemption system has been arranged for the High School which provides that any pupil having an average of 90 or above in any subject will be exempt from his semester examinations. This system should encourage the pupils to do better daily work.
