ped with lights which was the cause of the collision.

Mrs. Wogle was unfortunate in receiving a broken leg, and Miss Kaastad is suffering from wounds in the shoulder and cuts and bruises about the head. The other occupants of the cars escaped practically uninjured.

Both cars were practically totally destroyed and must have been traveling at a high rate of speed. That both parties were traveling at about the same rate of speed is indicated by the fact that both cars suffered about equal damage.
