Townley Evades Questions

(Concluded from first page)

Townley bitterly assailed the news papers, "the kept press of the nation," as he styled them. He charged the newspapers would not give true reports of the debates.

"Out of all his arguments I gather that if Debs weren't a Socialist, if Walter Thomas Mills didn't wear side whiskers, if Bill Haywood weren't an I. W. W., then you farmers might have a fair price for your grain.

"Now, my friends, I want to admit that not everything goes smoothly in the Nonpartisan league. I want
