

Mrs. Sadie Anderson

Died, at Pasadena, Cal., on Wednesday, Feb. 10, Mrs. A. O. Anderson.

Such was the substance of a telegram received here last Thursday by W. D. Sinclair, conveying the sad intelligence of the death of his sister, Sadie, after suffering from a long siege of tuberculosis, extending over a period of years, culminating in her death last Wednesday, as stated.

Sadie Sinclair was born July 19th, 1878, at St. Marys, Ontario, and was the youngest of seven children. When she was only five years old, her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Sinclair, came to the United States and located in Barnes county, at the point where the village of Rogers now stands. They remained there for only one year and in 1884 they took up their residence on a homestead just north of Hannaford. Here Sadie spent her childhood and here she grew up to womanhood.

She attended the Mayville Normal School, graduating from that institution in 1897, after which she taught school in this county for three or four years, then for a number of years she taught in the Minneapolis Public Schools.

On August 15, 1906, she was united in marriage to Alfred O. Anderson, and resided for three years in the home which he built for her here. About seven years ago they spent a year at Seattle, Wash., later returning to Hannaford where Mr. Anderson engaged in banking business which he was forced to discontinue on account of poor health. He sought specialists in Michigan, but without avail and on April 29, 1911, he succumbed to diabetis. Mrs. Anderson was at that time a sufferer from tuberculosis, and the year previous to her husband's death, had been taken to Seattle for her health, remaining there only a short time, and then going to Pasadena, where she resided until her death.

She leaves two sons, Gregg and Keith aged respectively seven and four years; her mother; a sister, Edith, and five brothers, Fred, Andrew, Wallace, James and William. Her mother and Edith had been living with her at Pasadena, and will continue to make their residence there as Mrs. Sinclair is in poor health.

The remains were taken to Coopers-town for interment beside those of her husband. The funeral is to take place today, Tuesday, at 1:30 o'clock p. m. from the Congregational church, Rev. O. D. Purinton and Rev. Chas. Evans officiating.

To her the struggle and burden bearing of earth are ended, and we confidently trust that like one who awakes from a troubled dream she has awakened to see life's endless morning break and knows herself at home with all the vast throng of loved ones, missed from earth, safe about her. Her affection for friends and kindred was tender and abiding.

Among us all she ranked always as a woman of culture, refinement, sympathy, a devoted mother and a true friend. In spite of her long struggle with sickness, and grief over the death of her beloved husband, she bore up bravely, and courageously endured the sorrows and disappointments of life.

During her residence here she was an active worker in the Presbyterian church. She was of an affectionate disposition, bright and winning in her ways, so that her friendship's circle was a large one.

"Mourn not the lost! in realms of changeless gladness.

Where friendship's ties are never crushed and broken, we still may meet; He who beholds our sadness

Hath to the trusting heart assurance spoken of that best land, where,

free from care and pain,

Fond friends unite again.
