COMMENCEMENT WEEK DOINGS

The eternal examinations came along last week and so completely monopolized the time that we didn't do much but write and cram. So busy have we been that we hardly had time to notice what anyone did: Twice last week our ambitious, long-suffering students forsook their beds at the unearthly hour of five A. M. and got to school by six o'clock in order to write an examination before school called. Verily, the way of the transgressor is hard.

The Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday night by Rev. Taylor was enjoyed by a large crowd.

Thursday evening in Groven's Hall the commencement exercises for the Eighth Grade and High School were held, Rev. Talbot of Tower City being the speaker of the evening. The program was short, consisting of a musical number by the Girls' Glee Club and the commencement speech, followed by the farewell by Prof. Clair L. Coddling and then the presentation of the diplomas by Mr. Claus Jackson, president of the board of education. Those receiving diplomas were: High School, Edna Jackson, Inez Jackson, Laura Fogderud, Jeannette Westley, Philip Thoreson and Charles Brown; Eighth Grade, Mabel Peterson, Helen Anderson, Alice Angus, Johnny Sorenson, William Westley and Kenneth Markuson.

Friday evening at eight o'clock at the Hannaford Hotel the faculty entertained the High School Senior Class at a banquet. The table was set for twelve and the place cards were in booklet form with a pink carnation on the front and the program on the third page. A delightful three course meal was enjoyed, following which these toasts were given:

"Welcome"..... Miss Purdon
 "Response"..... Jeannette Westley
 "Through the Reflectoscope".....
 ..... Inez Jackson
 "But tend thy serious hearing to what I shall unfold" (Act V, Scene V, Hamlet)..... Edna Jackson
 "He sent his son to college,
 But oh! alas! alack!
 He spent a thousand dollars,
 And got a quarter-back."

..... Philip Thoreson
 "What the class of '15 will do to the world"..... Laura Fogderud
 "Dig"..... Charles Brown
 Toastmaster..... Prof. Coddling

The responses to the toasts were enjoyed thoroughly, if applause was any indication of enjoyment.

When the toasts were finished, Prof. Coddling took the chair while an Alumni Association was discussed and definitely decided upon. The following officers were chosen: Jeannette Westley, president; Charles Brown, vice-president; Edna Jackson, secretary and treasurer. So next year the association will furnish a banquet to the graduates and each succeeding year will see new additions to the association. A committee was elected to draft constitution and by-laws, and to fix the dues of the association. At about ten o'clock, after a farewell by Prof. Coddling, the gathering departed to their homes, feeling not only happy over the banquet and the organization of the association, but grateful to the faculty and especially to Prof. Coddling and Miss Purdon, for their help and sympathy the past year.

"DIG"

Dedicated to the Class of 1915 of the Hannaford High School.

Here's to the class of enterprise
 That will strive its best, and win!

That will meet the shock till its power dies
 And its life ebbs out within!

That will face the foes of hate and fear
 And the foes of praise and blame,

And with purpose true will its task still do,
 With honor, just the same!

Then a cheer for the class of the helping hand—

The class of the purpose big—
 May their lives mean much to this world of ours

As they follow their motto, "Dig!"

When the path is hard and our hands are scarred

With the battles we'll fight and win—
 May the motto fair, like an ardent prayer,

Give us courage and strength to win!
 And the obstacles that will fill our paths

Though they may seem never so big,
 Will be beaten down, and be left behind,

If we follow our motto "Dig!"
 Then hurrah for the class that will do its best—

That will dig with a courage true,
 That will set the pace, and will keep its place

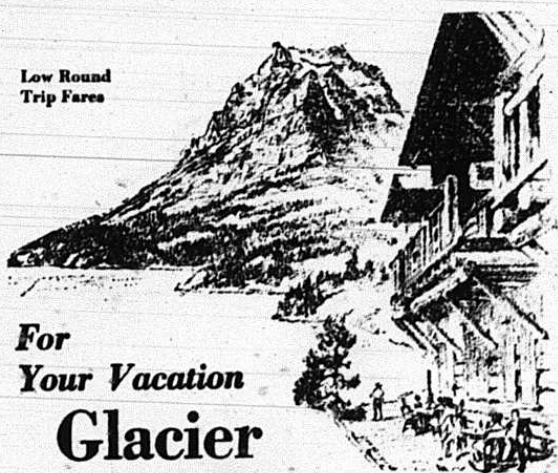

In the world of those who DO!

And the school will be proud of its Senior Class

And will keep our memory green—
 For in days to come, if we do our best
 Our deeds will be widely seen!

But we'll still look back to our high school days

With affection pure and clean,
 And will always wear our emblem fair
 And be proud of the pink and green!
