The above program is to be given by one of the High School literary societies. Instead of having one literary society this year we have two divisions. The following are members of the Junior-Freshman club: Anna Anundson, Edna Thoreson, Julia Forthun, Helen Anderson, Jennie Furaus, Hazel Larson, Kenneth Markuson, Hazel Peterson, Mabel Peterson, Pearl Blix, Clara Anderson, Ralph Knauss, Oliver Thoreson, Lyle Judge, Margaret Hovland, Dorothy Schmidt, Mildred Dunnum, Vera Worden and Selmer Aarestad. The members of the Sophomore-Senior division are Minnie Anderson, Oscar Westley, Anna Stone, Marton Markwood, Alice Angus, Eva Fogderud, William Westley, Bertha Wilson and Erma Armstrong. Debates between the two societies may be worked up later. In this way it is thought a greater enthusiasm will be created in work along literary lines.

Oral compositions have now taken the place of written themes in the English IV class. Reports on some of the writings of our present day authors are given in class. The style of writing as well as the subject matter is discussed. This work will make public speaking easier for the students.

"Monopolies" has been the subject taken up in Economics the past month. From the discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of such combinations the pupils have gained a clearer idea of one of the things which has caused a great problem in our country. Just wait till we get one of our Economics students for President! Reforms will be brought about, all will have a square deal and unsurpassed prosperity will reign!

Several pupils are absent from school on account of small-pox. Action to prevent the spread of the disease has gone into effect. The lower rooms have been fumigated and many children have been vaccinated.
