

The satisfaction which Nicholas Romanoff is said to find in private life does not seem to tempt Emperor William to follow his example.

The transactions of the world have gone a long way since the time when $1,000,000 was regarded as a very large sum of money.

States Attorney Tufte has filed a written opinion with the county auditor that personal property taxes must be paid before deed of real estate can be transferred and the county auditor's office will conform to that opinion.

Grace City Gazette: One of the strangest freaks that has been seen in our city was a fish, or what you might call it, which was caught at the lake Friday. This fish looked a great deal like a bull head and had legs and feet like a lizzard. Instead of having gills or a nose it had arms like an octopus. The thing did not live very long and died Sunday. The joke about it was that E. E. Petrich who landed him thought it was a bull head and was holding him in his hand, when to his surprise the fish started walking up his hand and arm. Some who have seen this species before call it a water dog.

J. J. Aarestad says that there are now 68 children in Grace City, and when he came here seven years ago there were none, but his own six.—
