

The past month has been an extremely hot one. So much so that heat records for many years past have been broken, and as a consequence man, beast and crops have suffered. Last Thursday evening, A. M. Saby was prostrated with the heat and in a partially unconscious and raving condition was hurried to town for medical aid. He had been working on the concrete foundation for the new barn on E. C. Evenson's farm throughout the afternoon and evidently had over-exerted himself in the heat. He was able to return home the same evening and it is hoped will completely recover from the effects of sun-stroke.
